SUPREME COURT ON ALTON RACE CASE.

Verdict of Lower Court Set Aside on Ground That It Is Contrary to Law and Evidence.

NEW TRIAL IS NOW NECESSARY.

Separate Schools Will Be Maintained for at Least Another Year-Important Rulings in Various States.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 18.-The celebrated Alton race case, to determine whether or not negro children shall be permitted to attend school with the whites, is, for the second time, returned by the Supreme Court for a new trial. For four years the city authorities and school authorities of Alton have succeeded in keeping negro children n schools separate from the whites. As it will be necessary for the Supreme Court to again pass upon the judgment of the Madison Circuit Court, it is likely that the separate schools will be maintained for at least another year.

In the lower court both trials resulted in a verdict favoring the Mayor and Common Council, respondents in the cases. In appealing to the Supreme Court the relator, Scott Bibb, a negro of Alton, claimed: That, first, the Court might could be in the court of Scott Bibb, a negro of Alton, claimed: That, first, the Court misdirected the jury as to the law; second, the first special finding submitted to the jury on behalf of the respondents is broader than the issues certified to said court for trial; third, the verdict is contrary to the law and evidence. All three claims are sustained by the higher tribunal.

Instruction Erroneous.

The Court gave to the jury an instruction that if it was believed the children of Alton were assigned to different schools by the proper authorities, who had a legal right to make such assignment, then the verdict should be for the defendants. This instruction the Supreme Court holds is erroneous in submitting, to the jury a question of law.

In upholding the second contention of the relator the court says that the special finding submitted to the jury might well have tended to mislead the jury by giving them to understand if the Douglas and Lovejoy schools, which the evidence shows to have been established exclusively for colored children, furnished educational facilities equal to those of the schools established exclusively for white children, then the respondents might lawfully exclude the children of the relator from the the respondents might lawfully ex-clude the children of the relator from the Washington or other most convenient pub-lic school of the city to which they might otherwise rightfully be admitted, and re-quire them to attend one of the schools established and maintained exclusively for colored children."

Jurisdiction in Mandamus Suits.

In passing upon the matter the court discusses the question of mandamus suits at length and lays down the following propositions regarding the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in such cases:

First—That the jurisdiction of the court of last resort is principally appellant; that its original jurisdiction is not a general one, like that conferred on the Circuit or District courts, but is a limited one, and concurrent, as far as it extends, with those courts.

Second—That in conferring original jurisdiction by constitutional provision in such cases as mandamus it was not contemplated that the Supreme Court would take jurisdiction of all mandamus cases which parties might think best to bring before it, but that such original jurisdiction was conferred that the court of highest authority in the State should have the power to protect the rights, interests and franchises of the State and the rights and interests of the whole people, to the rights and interests of the whole people, to enforce the performance of high official duties af-fecting the public at large, and, in emergency, of which the court kself is to determine, to as-sume jurisdiction of cases affecting local public interests or private rights, where there is no other adequate remedy and the exercise of such sound legal discretion to determine for itself, is the question may arise, whether or not the ase presented is of such a character as to call for the exercise of its original jurisdiction. This is the first time the court has passed This is the first time the court has passed upon the question of the extent of its original jurisdiction in mandamus cases, and the decision is for this reason an important one. It will have the effect of discouraging the practice of bringing mandamus proceedings in the Supreme Court except in such instances where there is no question each instances where there is no question cerning the public character of the question at issue.

In the case of Edward Bessette against the People, the court holds the "act to insure the better education of practitioners of horseshoeing and to regulate the practice of horseshoers," which was passed by the Legislature in 1857, to be unconstitutional.

the Legislature in 1857, to be unconstitutional.

The Supreme Court decides in favor of the city of Chicago in the tax suit of James C. King against the People, on the relation of Samuel B. Raymond, County Collector of Cook County.

A treatise on mandamus is given by the Supreme Court in passing upon the case of the People ex rel. John Dickinson vs. The Board of Trade of the City of Chicago.
The decision is one of the most important found in the big batch of opinions. It dismisses Dickinson's original petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the Board of frade to annul an order made by its Board of Directors. expelling him, and to restore his rights and privileges, and sugrestore his rights and privileges, and sug-gests a procedure in the Circuit Court of Cook County. Taxation of Imported Goods.

Taxation of Imported Goods.

Imported goods in private warehouses are not taxable by local Assessors is the finding of the court in another opinion handed lown to-day. This is in the appeal o. Pitkin & Brooks, a corporation, from the assessment of the Board of Review of Cook County. The Board of Review of Cook County. The Board of Assessors, held that imported goods in warehouses of private individuals or corporations—in other words, not in Government bonded warehouses—were subject to taxation.

imported goods in warehouses of private individuals or corporations—in other words, not in Government bonded warehouses—were subject to taxation.

The judgment of the lower court is affirmed in the appeal of William S. Young against the People.

The Supreme Court dismisses the writ of error in the case of Michael J. Healy and Thomas J. Moran against the People. This is the third time the Supreme Court has passed upon this celebrated case.

The judgment of the Cook County Circuit Court is affirmed in the appeal of Mary F. Carbine and Charlotte E. Newburn vs. the Illinois Central Railroad Company, wherein redress was sought for alleged damages sustained by the plaintiffs by the elevation of the railroad company's tracks adjoining the premises of the appellants in the city of Chicago.

The Supreme Court grants the petition for a writ of mandamus in the case of the People, on the relation of Eddie Hall, against Jesse Holdom, one of the Judges of the Superior Court of Cook County. The writ compels Judge Holdom to sien a bill of exceptions in the case against Hall, who was convicted in February of this year on a charge of robbery and sentenced to the Joliet Penitentiary.

The case of Marshall Field et al. the City of Chicago is reversel and remanded in an opinion written by Justice Cartwright.

New Bills Introduced in Senate.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Among the bills introduced in the Senate to-day were two by Senator Neison providing for industrial schools. The first of these authorises the appropriation of money for the establishment of schools for the industrial education of the youths of the country in any county of over $400, in each State of the Union.

The second provides a system of education for the Territories, including the recently acquired islands. For this system of schools $1.000,000 is suggested for the District of Columbia, and $18,000,000 for Period Rico and the Philippines, and the Territories.

Among the other bills introduced was can by Senator Penross levying a duty of a per cent ad valorem on all importations of unmanufactured silver. A presentia to the bill declares it to be the purpose of the measure to protect the silver mining in-dustry of the United States.
